A saint also historically known as a hallow is a person who is recognised as having an exceptional degree of holiness or likeness or closeness to God, while canonization is the act by which a Christian church declares that a person who has died was a saint, upon which declaration the person is included in the "canon", or list, of recognised saints. Nevertheless, although the concordance rate for monozygotic twins is higher than previously thought, it is below unity, and there are strong divergences in terms of the time it takes to develop T1D.
